Advocacy

Established in 1982,
Participatory Research in Asia
(PRIA), works for:

- ✿ Empowering marginalised and excluded communities through active citizenship
- ✿ Holding governance institutions accountable through social accountability
- ✿ Facilitating interfaces between citizen, civil society, and governance institutions

MAKING DEMOCRACY WORK FOR ALL

PRIA's THEMATIC PRIORITIES

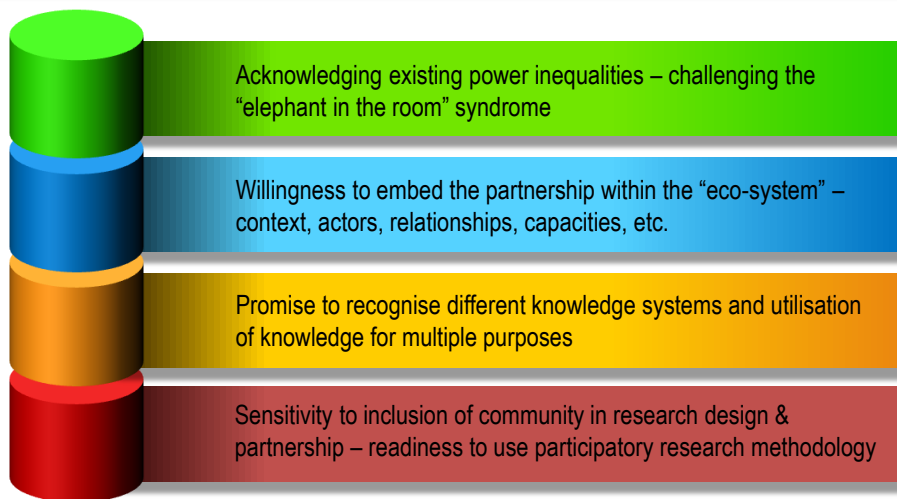

Special emphasis on participation of young women & men

WHAT CAN BE HELPFUL

- ✿ Multi-staged research funding – allocation of reasonable resources to develop proposal including community consultations and strengthening partnership
- ✿ Result framework should emphasise enough on N-S partnership and capacity building along impact pathways – it should be evaluated along with other results
- ✿ Research design should include engagement with local stakeholders - not an afterthought or post-facto
- ✿ A critical balance in relationship between individual and institution – institutionalising relationship

UNESCO Chair in Community Based Research and Social Responsibilities in Higher Education

Jointly hosted by:

- Prof. Budd Hall, University of Victoria, Canada
- Dr. Rajesh Tandon, PRIA, India

Knowledge for Change (K4C)

- ✿ Trains next generation mentors on CBPR, especially in global south and excluded north
- ✿ Offers a 21-week modular training - face-to-face, online, & field practicum in local settings
- ✿ Hubs have been established in Canada, India (3), Colombia, Cuba, Indonesia, Malaysia, South Africa, & Italy
- ✿ Each hub is a formal partnership between a HEI & a CSO
